THE GAME OF GOLF.

It is Really a Linguistic Discipline Learned Out of Doors.

"A celebrated metaphysician once said that the Hegelian philosophy consisted entirely of a scientific terminology which no two people interpreted in the same sense, hence its value as a source of endless discussion." The more you talked the further you were from a conclusion, but you had a "grand training in dialectics." It is eminently proper that the game of golf should originate with the metaphysical race, the Scotch, for it consists partly of a hard rubber ball, a number of peculiar curved sticks and a becoming negligee costume, but chiefly and primarily of a vocabulary. It can be played, but not properly played, without mastering the vocabulary. It cannot be thoroughly enjoyed unless the name "golf" is rightly pronounced, but, as no one knows how to do that, and all think they do, the pronunciation is a matter of comparatively little consequence. The proper use of the technical terms, however, is a matter of vital importance.

The principal words in the new language are: Driver, putter, caddy, lofting iron, nibble, mashie links, tees and caddy. One who has thoroughly mastered these words and wears a costume is a "golfer." To confuse their meanings, to speak, for instance, of "holing a caddy" or "lofting a links," or call a "putting green" a "nibble" is as serious a breach of good form as it would be to call a fishing rod a fish pole, as boys did 25 years ago, before the tyranny of the technical term set in. To be sure, you do walk about out of doors and strike the ball with the clubs, but the real essence of the game lies in wearing the costume and using the words. A thorough mastery of them is a liberal education.

Other subjects have their peculiar terminology, but in none of them is it so extensive and of such educational value as in the game of golf. An eminent authority defines an electrician as one who thoroughly comprehends the word "potential" and the notions collateral thereto. If you go into the woods, and live on canned food and crackers, you must speak of the place where you try to sleep, not as a "shanty," but as "a camp." The name at once elevates the place into the region of sylvan poetry and makes discomforts enjoyable. It really is a shanty; call it so, and the result is complicated discomfort; call it a camp, and the result is happiness. The right words are still more vital in golf, because the vocabulary is more extensive, though perhaps not containing any word of the peculiar potency of the monosyllable, "camp." But take the entire technical vocabulary of golf, it is more productive of a large amount of low-grade joy than any other agency in the world. Low-grade joy is far better worth attaining than high-grade joy or excitement. The great value of the game of golf can be readily seen. It presents all the advantages of studying a language. It is less difficult than Latin or French, and is learned outdoors. It is called a game, but in reality it is a linguistic discipline undergone in the open air unconsciously, accompanied by moderate pedestrian exercise and the wearing of a very sensible Scotch uniform. Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

Why She Couldn't Pay.
"Fare, please," said the conductor to the young woman who sat in the car, a picture of woe.
"I can't pay you this trip," answered the young woman, faintly.
"Why can't you, ma'am?" in a suspicious tone.
"I—I have lost my car fare."
"Did you have it when you boarded this car?"
"Yes, but I haven't it now. You can take my address or give me yours, and I'll send it to you."
"I can't do that," said the man; "it's against the rules. If you lost your fare in this car, there is no reason why you should not find it again. I'll help you to look for it."
"No, no," said the woman in a state of alarm. "I tell you that it is lost, and you will have to trust me to send it to you."
"Very strange!" said the conductor, suspiciously. "If you lost it on this car I can't see any reason why you can't find it again. How did you lose it?"
"I—I swallowed it!" shrieked the young woman, driven to desperation, and the conductor went out on the rear end of the car and cuffed a small boy's ears.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Fried Cakes.
A simple rule for crullers, or fried cakes, calls for a pint of sweet milk, two cupsful of granulated sugar, a quarter of a cupful of butter, three eggs, a scant teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Sift the baking powder and salt twice with three cupsful of flour and rub the butter through the flour. Stir the eggs after beating them well into the milk. Add the sugar to the flour and other ingredients and pour the milk over them, beating the whole until an even batter is formed. Add sifted flour enough to make a soft dough. Roll it out about half an inch thick, cut it in rings, twist and fry them in "boiling" hot fat.—N. Y. Tribune.

California Cookies.
One cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of milk, one egg, one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of chopped raisins, one-half teaspoonful each of ground cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, one teaspoonful of soda. Mix in flour like soft gingerbread, and drop in spoonfuls on buttered tins. Bake quickly.—Leisure Hours.

Not a First-Class Job.
"Yes," he said, proudly, "I am a self-made man."
"Too bad you couldn't have had a little more practice before tackling the job, isn't it?" remarked the lazy man in the corner.—Chicago Post.

BABY'S COMING.

Nature intended that every woman should look forward to the coming of her baby with joy and hope, unclouded by anxiety. Almost painless parturition is quite the usual thing among uncivilized people. Even in our own country it occasionally happens with women of robust health and good condition. It ought to be the rule instead of the exception; and it is a fact that a very large proportion of the usual pain and suffering may be avoided by looking after the mother's general health, and specially strengthening the particular organs concerned in parturition.

Many mothers have been brought through the trying time almost painlessly by the aid of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It prepares the system for delivery by imparting the organic strength and elasticity which the mother specially needs; shortens the time of labor and of confinement; promotes the secretion of abundant nourishment for the child and fortifies the entire constitution against the after period of depression and weakness. It's use should begin in the early months of gestation—the earlier the better.

Mrs. FRED HUNT, of Glenville, Schenectady Co., N. Y., says: "I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription being so good for a woman with child, so I got two bottles last September, and December 13th I had a twelve-pound baby girl. When I was confined I was not sick in any way. I did not suffer any pain, and when the child was born I walked into another room and went to bed. I never had an after-pain or any other pain. This is the eighth child and the largest of them all. I suffered everything that flesh could suffer with the other babies. I always had a doctor and then he could not help me very much, but this time my mother and my husband were alone with me. My baby was only seven days old when I got up and dressed and left my room and stayed up all day."

DURRANT GRANTED ANOTHER RESPIRE.

For the third time William Henry Theodore Durrant has been sentenced to be executed, this time at San Quentin Prison, California. He was convicted of murdering Miss Blanche Lamont in Trinity Church, San Francisco, on April 3, 1895. He is also under indictment for the murder of Miss Minnie Williams about the same time. The murder of Miss Lamont was one of the most atrocious in the annals of crime. Durrant, who was superintendent of a Sunday School, enticed the girl, who was an attendant at the school, into the church and mercilessly butchered her. His trial, by reason of the atrocity of the crime, was attended by all who had access to the courtroom and the proceedings, as published by the press, were read by millions. An appeal was taken from the trial court to the Supreme Court of California and the judgment was affirmed by that body. Subsequently the case was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States and that august tribunal, the highest in the land, found the proceedings in the State Courts to be regular.

Durrant is a man of iron nerve, as hardened a criminal, probably, as lives. He laughed at the jury that convicted him, smiled when the most convincing evidence of his guilt was being sworn to in court by antipathetic witnesses, and sneered at the Judge, who pronounced the sentence of death upon him.

When brought into court on Wednesday to again receive sentence, he listened to the proceedings in the court without a change of expression. When commanded to stand up by Judge Bahrs, for sentence to again be pronounced, he arose with the usual sneer on his face and when the words had been spoken that condemned him to die in less than forty-eight hours he was as unmoved as though made of stone. Even Duprey, his attorney, in his last plea told the Judge that he was condemning an innocent man and showed by his argument that he believed all hope was gone, yet when the proceedings were over Durrant smiled and nodded recognition to those in the courtroom, although the law had emphatically said he must die in a few hours.

Yesterday, efforts were renewed to save his neck and when all hope seemed gone a stay of proceedings was obtained from the California Supreme Court.

It now seems that Judge Bahrs' action in re-sentencing Durrant was hasty owing to the fact that the mandate of the United States Supreme Court under its seal had not been received and Judge Bahrs' order was not legal, as there was nothing officially before the court to base judgment upon.

One is almost inclined to believe that Durrant stands within a charmed circle. This crime of the century was committed nearly three years ago. He has passed through the various proceedings of court, sentenced and re-sentenced and at last the highest judicial tribunal in the land issues its mandate that the judgement of the lower court must be executed, yet at the last moment when all hope for the miserable creature seemed gone, a technicality arises which demands a delay. The circumstances surrounding this man's case incline one to be superstitious and to half believe that he may not be guilty, or that his execution means some dire calamity or other evil, for in two or three instances it has been checked almost at the hour of its consummation.

THE SOUND MONEY LEAGUE.

The National Sound Money League, which, though its name implies the contrary, is opposed to the use of standard silver dollars in the payment of debts for which such dollars are a legal tender, has just held its semi-annual meeting in New York. Many of the prominent money lenders of the country were present, and the secretary announced that there was lodged to its credit in a Chicago bank $2,000 over and above all expenditures. This sum was increased by contributions to $10,000, with the assurance that more would be forthcoming when necessary.

It was announced that bimetalism is dead, and after the usual obsequies over the corpse attention was inadvertently directed to the returns from the recent elections. This caused some confusion, as the votes in several States proved very conclusively that the obnoxious thing would not stay dead. A communication was then read from M. G. George, Vice-President from Oregon, in which Mr. George stated that his State was "honeycombed with financial errors and ignorance," and it was immediately decided to donate $1,000 to Mr. George with which to combat the financial ignorance and errors in Oregon.

It appears that the Sound Money League has abundance of money at its command, and all that is necessary for our gold friends here in Nevada to do to get a share of the spoils for the conversion of the benighted silver men of the State is to write that it is "honeycombed with financial errors and ignorance." Probably they have already done so and that diffusions which are published in the gold sheets are paid for at so much a line by the Sound Money League, for it is hardly possible that the State and all in their power to deprecate its principles of the gold party unless they are making money by no doing.

DURRANT NOT TO HANG TO-DAY.

His Execution Postponed on a
Writ of Probable Cause.

The Supreme Court of California
Is Unanimous in Its Opinion.

Special to the JOURNAL.
SAN FRANCISCO, November 11.—Durrant's attorneys made a heroic fight for him yesterday. General Dickinson appeared before Judge DeHaven of the United States District Court and asked permission to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge DeHaven suggested that the attorney apply to the U. S. Circuit Court.

At 11 o'clock General Dickinson appeared before Judges Morrow and DeHaven in the Circuit Court. He presented his petition for a writ of habeas corpus, showing that Durrant was held under a double judgment of close confinement and the death penalty. He also claimed that the mandate of the United States Supreme Court had not been received officially, and that Judge Bahrs' had acted prematurely and illegally in re-sentencing Durrant.

Attorney Boardman followed General Dickinson in support of the motion for the writ.

The motion for a writ of habeas corpus was denied, Judge DeHaven rendering the decision.

Boardman then asked leave to appeal from the decision to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Judge Morrow declined to grant the necessary permission to appeal, and refused any further time.

General Dickinson at once left for Sacramento and at 4 p. m. entered the Supreme Court chamber. The Court was in session and granted him a hearing. He made a plea for a writ of probable cause and after some minutes of deliberation the writ of probable cause was granted, the court being unanimous in making the order.

The decision is to the effect that Durrant shall not hang until further orders are issued by the Court.

FASHION NOTES.

Seasonable Items About Dress for the Ladies.

A curious caprice is that which was followed out at a recent wedding, when the maid of honor wore a dress of pink chiffon trimmed with black velvet. Black is seldom worn at weddings. There is a superstition that it is unlucky, except for the quite elderly ladies of the families, but latterly a disposition has been shown to introduce black velvet into wedding outfits, especially as a trimming material.

A stylish bit of headgear for a miss is of fine, thin felt made over a frame and piped at the edge of the brim with velvet. The trimming is of rolls of bias velvet, arranged in pulis and loops around the crown, a large cluster of flowers at one side, and a lace scarf, caught at intervals around the edge of the brim, complete the trimming.

An exquisitely pretty hat is made of velvet. The brim is moderately wide, rolled up at one side and completely covered on the upper side with thick ostrich plumes. Ends of the plumes fall over each side of the brim at the back, and upright feathers are supported against one side of the crown.

An autumn hat is of braid made of felt. The brim is wide and slightly rolled up at the sides; the trimming is an enormous fan made of loops of velvet ribbon, lapping one against another. On either side of this fan are thick, heavy plumes that droop slightly over the sides of the hat.

Specially handsome and becoming are the dancing dresses of crepe-de-Chine. They are made up over silk and are trimmed in the most elaborate fashion with ribbons, ruffles, ruchings and lace. —N. Y. Ledger.

ANIMALS IN HISTORY.

Important Part That They Have Played Since the Adam Incident.

Ever since the serpent's entrance into the Garden of Eden, where he became the disturbing element, birds, beasts and reptiles have played an important part in the world's history, says Lippincott's.

According to the Moslem creed certain animals besides man are admitted into Heaven. Among them are Balaam's ass, which reproved the disobedient prophet; Solomon's ant, which rebuked the sluggard; Jonah's whale, the ram of Damael, caught by the horns and offered in sacrifice instead of Isaac; the dog Kratim of the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus; the camel of Salek, the cuckoo of Belkiss, the ox of Moses, and Al-Borak of the prophet Mahomet to Heaven. Sometimes the ass, on which our Saviour rode into Jerusalem and the one on which the Queen of Sheba appeared when the visited King Solomon are added to the list. These animals were said to be gifted with the power of speech. Balaam's ass spoke Hebrew to his master on one occasion, the Al-Borak of the prophet Mahomet spoke Arabic, and, according to Greek mythology, Arion, the wonderful horse which Hercules gave to Adrastus, spoke good Greek; Xanthos, one of the horses of Achilles, announced to that hero in Greek his approaching death, and the black pigeons gave the responses in the temples of Ammon and Dodona.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The smallest horse in the world is a Shetland pony owned by the Marchese Carcano, in Milan. It is 24 inches high, and when standing beside its owner the pony's back is only an inch above his knee.

—In Bucharest, Roumania, women perform some of the severest forms of labor. They mix the mortar and carry it, as well as the bricks, to the topmost stories of buildings in course of construction.

—In some of the European art galleries the dust is removed from the paintings and statuary by means of an air pump, a jet of air being thrown with great force against the article which needs dusting.

—Alexander R. Bell, who recently died in Augusta county, Va., was one of five brothers who together had 19 sons. All of the 19 fought in the late war as members of Capt. Cushing's company of the Fifth Virginia regiment, Stonewall brigade.

—An anarchist society in Italy secretly decrees the death of ten rich men every month, so that their wealth will then be scattered among new hands. The dread of death, the anarchists claim, will make the rich less pompous and more generous.

—In Buda-Pesth, Hungary, the electric cars run underground in clean, airy and well-lighted tunnels. They start and stop gradually, without a jerk, it is a comfort to ride in them, and they never run over people, for pedestrians are not permitted in the tunnels.

—The Rhind manuscript, deciphered some 30 years ago, a hieratic papyrus now in the British museum, written by an Egyptian priest, Ahmes, about 1700 B. C., is the oldest intelligible mathematical work extant. Another and older roll on a mathematical subject exists, but has not yet been deciphered.

—Paris has, apart from two places where paupers can spend the night, 14 asylums for the homeless, which last year lodged 144,037 persons, of whom 15,557 were women and 2,600 children. Among the lodgers were 246 professors and teachers, 18 students, 5 authors, 5 journalists, 120 actors and singers, 30 musicians, 16 music teachers, etc.

AT A CHINESE FUNERAL

Elaborate Feast on the Grave for the Spirit's Nourishment.

The musical instruments are of such whimsical form as nearly to defy description, though they resemble in outline our flute and violin; and the sound which they produce being an almost unheard-of sound to us, we have no English term that will adequately express it, says Lippincott's. Chinese music has a sort of softness and melancholy in its tones that sometimes pleases, but it is so intolerably monotonous that if prolonged it becomes exceedingly irritating to the nerves. They have no semitones; indeed, they seem only to blow into the instrument or twang strings at random from the inspiration of the moment. However, it appears they have notes, though their compositions are not of much scientific value. You sometimes hear something like simple melody, not unlike that which runs through the chants of savages.

The closing scenes may be said to consist of four acts; that of the mourners taking separate leave of their friend, each apparently trying to outdo the other in loud lamentation; that of gathering together all the silk and china and packing away the musical instruments; that of the undertaker and the son of Erin still further removing the traces, until only a mound marks the scene; and that of the feast spread over the grave. And it would be an elaborate menu that would include the substantial and delicacies calculated to nourish the spirit while it lingers about the body awaiting resurrection.

The Granite Saloon is a quiet and pleasant place of resort. Cool beer is a specialty. Choice wines are sold by the gallon or in quantities desired; also liquors of all kinds.

HOW JAPAN COMMEMORATES.

Deeds of Valor in War Kept in Remembrance.

The military revival of Japan, which began with the conquest of China, showed itself in the various ways the great industries of the country celebrated the heroic incidents and victories of the war, says Atlantic. The toy-makers sent out legions of mechanical toys representing the flight of Chinese soldiers, the storming of Port Arthur and the fight of the Japanese flagship with the enemy's ironclads.

Artists commemorated the nation's triumphs in porcelain, metal work and lacquer ware. Designers portrayed them on the dresses of men, women and children. Tobacco pouches, sleeve buttons, hairpins, combs and even chopsticks were covered with representations that expressed the war spirit.

Bundles of toothpicks in tiny cases were offered for sale, each toothpick having engraved upon it, in microscopic text, a different poem about the war.

Gallant deeds were dramatized. The fatal courage of a Japanese soldier who scaled a rampart and opened a fortress gate to his comrades; the heroism of 14 troopers who held their own against 300 infantry; the successful charge of unarmed coolies upon a Chinese battalion were reproduced before thousands of spectators. Mr. Hearn mentions one incident whose realistic portrayal must have thrilled the audience—the death of the bugler, Shirakami Genjiro.

At the battle of Song-Hwan this Japanese bugler was ordered to sound the charge. He had sounded it once when a bullet passed through his lungs, throwing him down. His comrades tried to take the bugle away, seeing his wound was fatal. He wrested it from them, lifted it again to his lips, sounded the charge once more with all his strength and fell back dead.

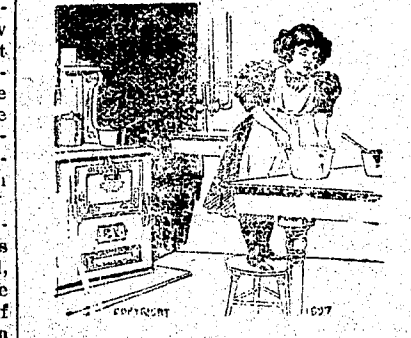

He Had Two Hours Left.

A Hartford commercial traveler was in Danbury, Conn., the other night and on retiring left word with the hotel clerk to be called on time for the five o'clock train the next morning. He was awakened long before daylight by a vigorous banging at the door and a voice in response to inquiry as to whether the hotel was on fire, said: "I'm the watchman, and I'm going off duty. I thought I'd like to tell you that you have nearly two hours to sleep yet. It's about three o'clock." — Hartford Post.

THE EXAMINATION POSTPONED.

An Attempt Will be Made to Have a Clean Trial.

The preliminary examination of Julian Guinan was set for 10 o'clock this morning, but when the time came it was postponed. Mr. Jones, father of the deceased, wished that no further steps be taken until after the funeral, which will take place in Reno to-morrow, and Dr. Guinan and family had no desire to deny the request.

General Clarke, who is acting for the friends and relatives of the deceased, said he would not object to bail being given in any reasonable amount, as he entertained no fear that the boy would run away. On the other hand the boy's father says it is far from his desire to cause any unnecessary pain to the relatives of Mr. Jones, and an endeavor will be made to have the trial take place as clean from personalities as is possible. And so the matter rests. The examination will take place before Justice Stone Monday at 10 o'clock.

This is little new, of course, in connection with the affair, except that it seems the boy, Julian, called to his sister warning her of the approach of his father in the hopes that Jones would leave and the meeting be avoided.

Miss Guinan naturally is prostrated with grief at the unfortunate affair, and now realizes, as she never did before, the position in which her father and family were placed.

Yesterday afternoon the class of which Julian Guinan is a member signed a letter of condolence written by their teacher, and it was sent to the boy in jail. Professor Howe also endorsed it with an admonition to be brave and saying that things always ended for the best.

Later last evening Dr. Guinan received a telegram from T. T. Williams, business manager of the Examiner, assuring him of his sympathy in the affair and his friendship to the doctor.

There has been fear that names of other girls would be dragged through the mud before the affair was ended, but if the present course is continued there is need of but little fear. There will be a shaking up if things and plans are changed, however.

Julian Guinan is a boy who has always been respected by every one who knew him, and as feeling now runs it will be difficult to convict him. This will, of course, depend largely, however, on the character of the defense, which can only be surmised. —News.

The New United States District Attorney.

Hon. Sardis Summerfield of Reno received the appointment of United States District Attorney for Nevada, yesterday. Mr. Summerfield's friends were very confident of his appointment at the expiration of the late C. A. Jones' term. The latter's death, however, created a vacancy in the office, hence the immediate action. There were three other candidates for the position, viz., Judge Murphy, O. H. Grey and E. D. Vanderleith, all of Carson, but Mr. Summerfield was chosen and his friends, regardless of party, as a matter of course are greatly pleased over his good fortune.

He was notified to qualify immediately and left for Carson on the local, where he resigned his position as Senator from Washoe and took the necessary steps to assume his new office.

Mr. Summerfield is an able attorney and there is no question but that the affairs of the office will be carefully handled and thoroughly managed. He is a positive man in all things, yet fair and considerate to the unfortunate or oppressed. In the performance of his duty, however, the law-breaker must expect no quarter from him for he will carry out his duty without fear or favor.

He is so well known in Nevada both as a lawyer and public spirited citizen that it is hardly necessary to speak of him in these particulars. He is a dyed-in-the-wool, shell-backed, straight-haired Republican. If he hadn't been such he wouldn't have gotten the job, but thank God he is a resident of Nevada.

The disgruntled and disappointed men at Carson are cursing the Washoe combination. It has been asked, who are the fellows who have such influence at Washington? Carsonites lay it to Summerfield, Tarritt, Emmett and Fletcher.

Slot Machines Must Go.

This pernicious instrument of depravity among the youths of the land and of demoralization among their elders, the nickel-in-the-slot machine, will soon be a thing of the past in San Francisco. The contention that a city license is superior to the State laws has been answered in a convincing manner by District Attorney Barnes, who declares that these iniquitous devices are operated in violation of the statutes and that it is the plain duty of the authorities to suppress them.

All that is necessary now is that the Chief of Police shall order his men to remove the nickel-in-the-slot machines, just as they would sweep away roulette tables, faro layouts and other gambling paraphernalia.

Meeting of Officers.

Adah Chapter No. 122, O. E. S., of Reno elected the following officers at last evening's convention: Libbie C. Booth, W. M.; Stewart Logan, W. P.; Margaret C. Bird, A. M.; Grace V. Ward, Secretary; Anna Sample, Treasurer; Minnie D. Noyes, Conductress; Emi Fish, Assistant Conductress.

EDMONDSON-MCFARLIN.

Hearts and Hands Joined and a New Household Established.

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of A. O. McFarlin, a short distance south of Reno, last evening. The contracting parties were Mr. A. R. Edmondson of Lovelock and Miss Jennie McFarlin of Reno, the Rev. Mr. Freeman officiating. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends of the young couple were present, but the life compact was none the less sincere nor the promised happiness of the young couple none the less abbreviated by reason of the lack of pomp or ostentatious display.

It was a simple, homelike wedding, where two hearts beating in unison promised each other devotion through life and entered into a compact to love, protect and honor each other regardless of the vicissitudes that must necessarily be met in the multiplicity of events that occur to all in their duties to their fellows and the world.

Mr. Edmondson is a prosperous young merchant at Lovelock, and he has shown his superior judgment in his choice of a wife. He cannot help but continue his prosperity with a helpmate who realizes and understands the practical side of life. The Journal is not personally acquainted with Mr. Edmondson, but there can be no doubt of his good qualities or he would not have won his wife.

Mrs. Edmondson is a Reno raised girl. As true as the stars that shine at night and one that any man may be proud to claim as his own. She is a graduate from the Normal School at the State University, having received her honors in 1890. Since then she has taught four years in Lovelock as assistant in the school there. She has now taken one pupil, who may be to a certain extent recalcitrant, but her past experience will doubtless aid her in enforcing discipline.

The Journal wishes them joy and may their matrimonial bliss be one never ending honeymoon and their pathway be free from all obstacles and hindrances incident to life.

The Old Kentucky Home.

E. M. Hostetter, the watchmaker and jeweler located at the Reno Drug Company's store, has proven himself to be a landscape artist of no small ability. He has placed in one of the windows of the Drug Company an old log cabin with appropriate surroundings including garden, growing crops, cows, etc. In the foreground a miniature river is presented with a little island and willows growing along the banks and as one looks into the water the imagination can almost be stretched into seeing fish leaping into the air, or from force of habit will wave the hand about the face or ears as if to brush away a mosquito.

The pianinies have quit their wood sawing and are squatted on the ground shooting craps, while the old auntie, their mother, is emerging from the door, stick in hand to remind them of their waywardness and disobedience.

The scene is a novel and very attractive one and Mr. Hostetter has received many compliments for his work.

Between now and the holidays Mr. Hostetter will introduce several novel and pretty displays, so look out for them.

Cure for Black Leg in Cattle.

When black leg is prevalent in the community, mix pulverized sulphur and salt until well colored, and place where stock will get it as a preventive. When an animal is affected, take equal parts of sulphur, charcoal, saltpetre and powdered ginger, mix thoroughly and give a tablespoonful twice a day (until cured) in a half pint of warm water. Drench animal from a bottle. I have known it to cure when the animal's legs had become stiff. —Ex.

THE CURFEW.

We wish to call the attention of our readers, especially those who are responsible for the growing youth in our midst, to a matter pertaining to the morals of our town.

The youth of to-day will be the man of to-morrow, therefore it behooves us to look after the conduct of the youth just now. If any one has recently been disturbed by young children playing about our streets late at night, he will be interested in reading the following ordinance, issued in 1889, by the Board of County Commissioners of Washoe County and is still in effect.

Ordinance No. 23 reads as follows: "To Prohibit Minors Being Abroad after Eight O'clock, P. M."

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any minor, of the age of 16 or under, to be on or about any of the public streets, alleys or highways or vacant lots, within the town limits of the town of Reno, after the hour of eight o'clock, P. M., without being accompanied by his, her or their parents, guardian or employer, or being in the necessary or actual discharge of duties, services or errands required by him or her, or by returning home in a quiet, orderly manner, without undue loitering or delay, from a visit to a place of amusement, on which, or to which such minor may have gone with the consent of his or her parent, guardian or employer.

Section 2. It shall be the duty of all peace officers, when they see such minor violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, to request any such minor to immediately go home, and arrest him, her or them if they fail to comply with such request; and such minor violating the provisions of this ordinance, after such request, shall be deemed guilty of a nuisance, and, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not to exceed twenty-four hours or by both fine and imprisonment.

The Ordinance speaks for itself and in forcible language. We would urge upon parents to consider this matter, to know where their children are and to feel that there comes an added responsibility with the ringing of the curfew. As late as eleven o'clock we have seen boys and girls under the age of twelve years playing together on the streets and in our alleys, and about the empty cars standing on the tracks. A life in the streets at these hours makes it easy for children with this apprenticeship to become vicious and immoral.

The officers are evidently not doing their whole duty when this is allowed, but the greater responsibility rests upon the parents and it is to them we appeal for the righting of this matter. There are, to be sure, many children over whom their parents have no control, this class should be the officers' especial charge, and they are remiss in their duty when they do not enforce a strict compliance with the law.

We trust that officers and parents alike will combine to remove one of the evils of our town.

On Sunday, October 17th, nine thousand men, members of the Holy Name societies attached to the various Roman Catholic churches of the diocese, marched through the principal thoroughfares of Brooklyn, N. Y., as the inauguration of a crusade against profanity.

Zimmerman, the world's champion, says to cyclists: "Don't smoke; it depresses the heart and shortens the wind. Don't drink; drink never wine races. I have trophies at home which would have belonged to others if they had let liquor alone."

Removal sale.

Mr. R. E. Queen having become the owner of the Chambers building occupied by me as a dry goods store, has concluded to make important changes in the building which necessitates my moving temporarily to some other place. Preparatory to moving I must reduce my stock of dry goods and will therefore sell at a great reduction my entire stock consisting of Dry Goods of all qualities in latest styles, Ladies and Childrens Jackets, Capes in cloth and plush, Blankets, Flannels, Ladies cloth, Lace Curtains, Bedspreads, Ladies and Childrens underwear and hundreds of articles of fancy goods. The reduction is sweeping and customers will be saving on all purchases. S. EMERICH.

Next door to Nevada Bank.

Prizes at Card Parties Considered Gambling.

There is fear and trembling among the society people of Montpelier, Ill., and the result of the deliberations of a grand jury is anxiously awaited. The jury is investigating card parties at which prizes are given to the winning players, and a number of the jury-men are inclined to the belief that competing for handsome prizes of china is as much gambling as competing for a jackpot full of five-cent chips.

Call at Muller & Stump's Fabst agency for fine California and imported wines for family and medicinal purposes. Sherry, port, muscatel, angelica and all dry wines by the gallon. Open every day until 8 o'clock. 11f

Illinois operators, it is said, will import Chinese laborers to work their coal mines. No better method could be adopted to work up a general feeling in favor of an exclusion law that excludes.

The lunches at the Granite Saloon cannot be excelled and the beer is served ice cold. A choice stock of wines by the bottle or gallon. 11f
